Tradition should not be the enemy of innovation!

We are pleased to inform you that the succession plan for the over 100-year-old Strub & Co. AG has been secured and should be transferred into the hands of Fuchs SE at the turn of the year.

What does this mean for our valued, long-standing customers?

Strub will continue to produce its own, existing and newly developed, high-quality lubricants at the CH-6260 Reiden site. Research and development will also be maintained and expanded at the site in order to be able to respond quickly and reliably to our customers in partnership as usual.

The Strub team and company management will remain in place.

The product names of the 1600 different Strub specialities remain unchanged and do not affect existing lubrication plans, approvals, recommendations, customer-specific products, analyses, service, etc.

An additional addition to Fuchs SE's global and broad-based product portfolio will massively round off and enhance the variety of products (see appendix).

We are confident that this synergistic approach by both companies will have a positive impact on the needs of the market and our customers.

We will continue to provide strong support and service to the Swiss marketplace, including resellers at home and abroad.
